

Tom Brunt's Extended Acoustics to Release Debut Album on Unit Records

Release Date: June 13, 2025

Geneva, Switzerland — Tom Brunt's Extended Acoustics, the Geneva-based sextet led by acclaimed guitarist and composer Tom Brunt, proudly announces the release of their debut album on Unit Records. Scheduled for release on June 13, 2025, this album marks a major milestone in the ensemble's evolution, showcasing long-form compositions that blend a wide range of musical traditions into a cohesive and immersive experience.

This album, the fourth by an ensemble led by Brunt and featuring his compositions, highlights the ensemble's unique approach to instrumentation and composition. The group's lineup includes three acoustic guitarists (Tom Brunt, Charles Fréchette, Zoltan Kisak), a violinist (Raphael-Tristan Jouaville), a violist (Marc Crofts), and a double bassist (Pierre Balda). These musicians collaborate to create a sound that merges the rich tonal colors of classical music, the spontaneous textures of contemporary improvised music, the rhythmic vitality of jazz, and the cutting-edge composition techniques and improvisation codes of electronic music.

The album's long-form compositions allow the ensemble to fully explore these diverse influences, creating expansive musical journeys that invite listeners into a richly textured sound world. The integration of electronic influenced treatment of musical objects within the acoustic framework further enhances the depth and complexity of the music, offering a fresh and engaging listening experience. The production quality reflects the ensemble's commitment to excellence, with mixing by Luc Montaudan in Paris and mastering by Benoît Corboz in Lausanne.

Tom Brunt's work has been praised by critics for its originality and depth. VIVA LA MUSICA describes his music as "revealing original atmospheres that constantly refer to his own universe." JAZZDERGISI highlights Brunt as "a musician with unique and luminous ideas, who has found his own voice by drawing inspiration from a wide range of sources."
